

ROYAL FLISS
Koninklijk Instituut voor Taal-, Land- en Volkenkunde
(Royal Institute of Linguistics and Anthropology)
P.O. Box 9515
2300 RA Leiden
The Netherlands

Contents

Preface
I	Introduction
II	Kayan religion The old religion and the Bungan reform
III	The religious environment of daily life
IV	Religious beliefs
V	Ritual specialists
VI	The rituals of the annual cycle
VII	Dayong The ritual of the domestic unit
VIII	Curing and protective rituals
IX	Rituals of the life cycle
X	Conclusion
	Glossary
	Bibliography
	Index

Cover: Youetta de Jager and Rita DeCoursey

ISBN 90 6718 132 3

© 1998 Koninklijk Instituut voor Taal-, Land- en Volkenkunde

No part of this publication may be reproduced or transmitted in any form or by any means, electronic or mechanical, including photocopy, recording, or any information storage and retrieval system, without permission from the copyright owner.

Printed in the Netherlands

Preface

I gratefully acknowledge the hospitality of the people of Uma Bawang. E laypeople and religious specialists spent much time in teaching me their religion. I am particularly grateful for the contributions of Avun Ngo, Avun Imang, Bulan Ngo, and Uku Hlong.

Many people made my research possible between 1970 and 1974. I am grateful to the late Edmund Leach for his advice and support, and to the person of the Sarawak Museum, especially Lucas Chin. Jayl Langub, then Sarawak Administrative Officer in Belaga, helped me in many ways and provided me with hospitality during my monthly visits to the bazaar. The late Tom Harris gave me his Central Borneo archives, which contain several interesting documents, in particular Baling Avun's precious manuscript on Kayan religion which I refer to in the text.

Rodney Needham and Bernard Sellato made invaluable suggestions on previous versions. The manuscript has benefited greatly from Madeleine Palm editorial comments; I am also grateful for Kathleen Hugessen's and David Pearson's comments on sections of the text.

Fieldwork was carried out with financial support from the Canada Council (1969-1973, 1974) and the Evans Fund in Cambridge (1970, 1971). A small grant from McGill University (1987) helped me complete the manuscript. Color slides were processed into black-and-white prints with financial help from the Evans Fund (1990).

Map 1. Borneo